

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A composition for treating skin conditions includes sulfur combined with a carrier vehicle such as, VASELINE[®], petroleum jelly, lard or the like. At least fifty % by weight of the sulfur is used in combination with the VASELINE[®], petroleum jelly or lard to create an effective skin cream for curing skin conditions such as, tinea versicolor, seborrheic keratosis and other kinds of dermatitis. The skin cream generally requires one application, unless the condition is severe, thereby avoiding daily and multi-daily expensive regimens. Additional components such as pyrithione zinc, selenium sulfide and ketoconazole, in varying weight proportions, typically between 1% and 2.5%, and in various combinations of each, may also be combined with sulfur in the carrier vehicle to provide enhanced treatment of various skin conditions.
